

Activity 3.7

Possible signs of motivation include:

1. Active participation in your product design through joint value analysis or value engineering initiatives
2. Providing flexibility in specifications
3. Establish special quality control tests or arranging required inspection services

4. Assigning specialised staff with the desired expertise to work with your company in product design, etc.
5. Providing options for transfer of technology and intellectual property to your company